"TAD" DORGAN PASSES AWAY WHILE ASLEEP

"For crying out loud," "What, no spinach." These were all Tad's. He was the first to call a hat a "skimmer," eye glasses "cheaters."

Perhaps his most famous expression was "Twiney-three ski-doo." That lifted him from a $5 a week cartoonist on the San Francisco Bulletin into large salaries in the east.

He thrilled to fights. His stories of the Gans-Nelson and Jeffries-Johnson fights remain as classics. His heart went wrong nine years ago, and he never was able to attend a big fight since the Dempsey-Miske affair in Benton Harbor in 1920.

Occasionally he would leave his easy chair at Great Neck for a motor trip to New York. He would install himself in a hotel room and see his mad gay world pass beneath his window. He would laugh and say "I am enjoying life."

Because he could attend no modern-day fights, Dorgan constantly recalled past battles. He was especially fond of James Corbett, former heavyweight champion. As boys these two used to spend much time around the San Francisco livery stable of Corbett's father.

Hole In Pocket Costs Him Job

GLOUCESTER, O., May 2.—(UP)—A hole in the pocket of Mayor Hugh Gormley cost that individual his job.

Mayor Gormley, 66-year-old veteran of county politics and mayor of this city 28 years, lost $171.86, money paid to him in fines and license fees for February. He said the money was lost through a hole in his pocket.

Called before the city council to make his report and turn over the funds, Mayor Gormley explained the situation. The council demanded that Gormley pay back the money by installments. And Gus Gaskella, council president, is mayor following Gormley's suspension.

ARMY PLANE FALLS INTO LOS ANGELES STREET

SCHOOL PUPIL MAY DIE FROM INJURIES

What was planned for a joyous day's outing may turn into tragedy, as the result of an accident one mile north of Bolis this morning. Simon Salki, 20, a senior in the Garden Grove union high school, suffered a skull fracture when the car in which he was riding with Bob Stroud, R. F. D. No. 1, Anaheim, also high school students, overturned.

Salki's scalp was almost torn from his head in the accident, which occurred when the machine struck a deep rut in the road.

The injured youth was rushed to the Anaheim sanitarium, where it was reported this afternoon that little hope was held for his recovery. The other youths were not hurt.

According to information given the hospital, the boys "ditched" school and decided to go to the beach. They secured the light touring car belonging to Ishari's father and were driving in the vicinity of Bolis when the car overturned.

Waffle Sells Out to Plavan

Property known as the Arcade building at 417-419 West Fourth street was purchased yesterday by D. Plavan and Loren J. Mead for $80,000. The deal included a trade of highly developed land in Riverside county that has been held by Plavan and Mead for several years, said by Plavan to be included in the purchase price at $65,000. Possession of the property, which is a two-story building covering 50 feet and extending through to Fifth street, was taken over yesterday by the new owners, who plan, according to Plavan, to add a grocery store and restaurant to the barber shop, market, butcher shop and furniture store operating in the building. The property sold had been owned by Waffle for about 35 years and the site was the location of a lively stable many years ago. Plavan, who lives at Greenville, has other holdings in the county, and announced this morning that the purchase of the Santa Ana property was the result of his faith in the future of Santa Ana. Mead, Plavan's associate, is a Santa Ana man, now in China with the Standard Oil company, but Plavan said he expected Mead to return to Santa Ana in about a year to take an active part in the management of their property here.

Warm Here Just Barely 90 Degrees

Not so hot. Despite the fact that Santa Ana had informally accepted shirt sleeve weather today, E. E. Campbell, who operates the United States weather bureau "observatory" at Orange, stated today that it merely seemed warm and this his thermometer registered only 90 degrees at 10:37 a. m. In fact, Campbell stated, there have been hotter days in May than this one. There even have been warmer days than yesterday, when the temperature was 93 degrees at its highest. Campbell, of course, felt as warm as anyone else today, but pointed out that the apparent heat seemed noticeable only because the recent spring and winter have been so cool. But there may be days in May which really can be called warm, it appeared from weather bureau records. On May 5 of last year the thermometer reached 94 degrees. On May 14, 1927, it climbed to 103 degrees. On May 12, 1926 it reached 93 degrees, on May 18, 1925, it got only as far as 85 degrees and on May 16, 1924, it rested at 90 degrees. Those were the warmest May days recorded during the last six years.

WATER PROJECT GIVEN BACKING AT GATHERING

ORANGE, May 1.—Which of two important projects should be submitted to voters of the county first, was the chief matter up for discussion at a meeting here last night when members of the water conservation committee and representatives of the farm bureau service clubs of the county were present. It was the general opinion of those present that water conservation bonds should be submitted first and if that these carried, a $1,500,000 harbor bond issue should be placed for their decision, according to Judge L. F. Coburn, chairman of the committee on water conservation of the Associated Chambers of Commerce. Last night's meeting was the initial meeting for the discussion of water conservation and about 30 were in attendance. The next meeting will be held at the same place May 8. Definite action will be taken at this time, when it is expected that the board of supervisors will have acted on the report submitted to them by Paul Bailey, flood control engineer. The work of the committee will include an educational campaign in acquainting the people of the county of the necessity of water conservation, Judge Coburn stated.

Accuses Husband Of Visiting With Women In Orange

Claiming that she had found her husband, Robert Wallace, in the home of a young Orange girl after midnight, and that she and others had seen him emerge from the home of a Santa Ana woman at 2 a. m. after he had been with her continually prior to that time, Mrs. Jane Wallace today brought suit for divorce against her husband. On January 1, 1925, Wallace began going out night after night with a young, unmarried school teacher of Orange, the complaint said, pointing out that two and one-half years ago he was devoting his attention to another young Orange girl. Then for the last three months he has been in company with the Santa Ana woman, according to the complaint. The ywars married in 1923 and separated on April 8, the complaint said. J. B. Tucker, Santa Ana attorney, is counsel for Mrs. Wallace.

Court Notes

The Los Angeles Bond and Securities company today brought suit against Caroline Unde to foreclose a street improvement bond lien against La Habra property. A similar suit was started against Cordis W. Tendill.

In an action appealed to the superior court from the Newport Beach justice court by the defendant, G. W. Horner today was seeking damages from J. W. Hildreth in the amount of $224.60. The case is based on an automobile accident at Santa Ana avenue and Sixteenth place, Costa Mesa, on January 19. The defendant had brought a counter claim against Horner in which he sought $38 damages.

William Jones today was seeking judgment for $194 and $55 in damages from Frank Vaughn, constable of the Newport Beach township. According to the complaint a deputy of Vaughn, acting in an official capacity, removed a showcase belonging to the plaintiff from the premises of E. L. Howell. Jones brought suit for recovery of the property in the Newport Beach justice court, where he won judgment. The defendants appealed the case to the superior court.

Claiming that equipment in a printing establishment which he bought from R. A. Stubbs was not as alleged to have been represented by the latter, Claude M. Marvin today brought suit against Stubbs, seeking judgment for $1259.65. According to the complaint the equipment was alleged to be one and one-half years old, but actually was much older. The purchase price was $3000 and Marvin is seeking the alleged difference in value between what he paid and what he claims the property is worth.

The Southern Sierras Power company today launched condemnation proceedings against property near Garden Grove owned by Jacob E. Schumacher and Bertha Schumacher. The complaint asserted that a right-of-way through the property is necessary in order to complete the route for an electric power line.

George Galloway, 35, mechanic, and Hugh Galloway, 32, cook, both of 3305 Casanova street, Los Angeles, were arrested and lodged in jail on drunk charges after a fight in which they are alleged to have participated at the Goetz filling station at Delhi late yesterday afternoon. George Galloway, who drew a broken nose during the fight encounter with the operator of the gas station, was released on his own recognizance this morning by Justice Morrison, who allowed the defendant liberty until 5 o'clock this evening to secure funds to pay fines of $50 he assessed on the drunk charge. Failure to secure the money means that both will start serving sentences of 30 days levied as the alternative of paying the fines.

L. E. Wall, charged with petty theft, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Justice Morrison this morning. The trial was scheduled for 10 a. m., May 7. Wall is alleged to have stolen a diamond

WATER SUBJECT AT SESSION OF TOASTMASTERS

Water in its various aspects claimed the attention of the Toastmasters club last night in the new dining room of Ketter's cafe.

Nat H. Neff, C. A. McCullough, Charles Terry and Earl Matthews were the speakers. They discussed Boulder dam developments in water and real estate, local needs in Orange county as to water supplies and flood control, and the general importance of water to human life and prosperity. Some very excellent speeches were presented under the leadership of E. N. Owen, who served as toastmaster for the evening. Members of this club expect to hold themselves available for any speech making that may become necessary in promoting the Orange county project for water conservation.

Past President William Iverson installed new officers for the coming four months. Earl Matthews, president; Nat H. Neff, vice president; Don Lemon, secretary-treasurer, and Curtis Burrow as sergeant-at-arms, were the officers inducted into office. ## Guests At Party Discover Tires Relieved Of Air

A group of boys had a fine time last night in the neighborhood of Camille and Shelton streets, where a party was in progress.

Many methods were thought up by the lads for annoying the guests, but the crowning inspiration of the evening resulted in pushing several of the cars that had been parked in front of the house around to the side street and letting out the air in the tires.

Officer Cozad, who was finally called by the annoyed guests to relieve them of the pests, secured the names of several of the alleged mischief makers from the host.

CLEAN UP CHAIRMAN EXPRESSES THANKS

The clean up, paint up and beautification committee of the chamber of commerce today expressed its sincere appreciation for the "wonderful co-operation of the city schools, the teachers, principals, superintendent, the city officials, city engineer's office, police department, Boy scouts and all others who took part in the parade, which started promptly on time and was thoroughly enjoyed by all those who viewed its progress," Ridley Smith chairman said.

"As a direct result of the parade many instances have already been called to our attention where people have been reminded that they should get busy and clean up their properties, and they have informed us that the interest created by the young folks has stimulated them into their annual spring cleaning."

"So many people were responsible for the success of the parade that it is difficult to express our thanks to each individual and organization, but we feel that the great deal of work done by Walter L. Scott, director of physical education; and L. W. Archer, assistant supervisor of physical education in the Santa Ana city schools under the chairmanship of Superintendent J. A. Cranston, should be praised."

Former Executor Of Estate Sued On Alleged Debts

Alleging that R. R. Camfield, while acting as executor of the estate of his late father, Edward W. Camfield, had postponed starting probate proceedings with the intention of waiting until his own alleged obligations to the estate had become barred by the statute of limitations, Bernice E. Moore, present administratrix, brought suit against Camfield today to collect $1210, asserted to be due to the estate from the defendant.

The alleged debts include a $1000 promissory note and a smaller one for $110, both of which have not been paid, according to the complaint. Camfield also received from George Kutscher the sum of $100, to be paid to the estate, but failed to turn it over, the complaint charged. The plaintiff stated that the $1000 note was in the private papers of the deceased and had been unknown to her until recently.

AND A NEW CAMPAIGN FOR CAMP OPENED

The campaign for funds to help the 40 and 8 society of Orange county to carry on its work in the welfare among the underprivileged children of the county opened officially Wednesday evening with a meeting of the candidates, their managers and the 40 and 8 campaign committee. This campaign is in the nature of a Miss Orange County election with 17 women of the county as candidates.

This is in no way to be construed as a beauty show or popularity contest, for it is an election and the winners will be determined by the number of votes they poll.

R. H. McCalla, chef de gare of Voiture locale No. 527, made the opening address and explained to the candidates the purposes of the 40 and 8 and its connection with the campaign. C. A. Hubert, director of the campaign, explained the method of conducting the individual campaigns.

Mrs. Amelia A. Meagher, superintendent of the Orange county health camp, made a stirring address in the interest of the need of the underprivileged children of Orange county as also did District Attorney West. West announced that there is no way in which underprivileged children can be maintained by the state unless they are children of indigent parents. There are many children in Orange county who are in a condition where they are much in need of help to safeguard their health but unless some organization takes them in hand they will not receive this necessary help. That is the reason for this campaign by the 40 and 8.

The candidates in this event are as follows: Mrs. Laurine Arguello, Orange; Mrs. Vera Barry, Huntington Beach; Miss Rowena Byrum, Fullerton; Mrs. Lottie (Betty) Brookbank, Tustin; Miss LaVelle Cheatham, Anaheim; Miss Ethelyn Grainger, Fullerton; Mrs. Inez Halber, Santa Ana; Mrs. Betty Intorf, Orange; Miss Mary Mason, Placentia; Miss Alice Majors, Santa Ana; Miss Dorothy Mahew, Santa Ana; Miss Miriam Pendleton, Brea; Miss Helen Stein, Santa Ana; Miss Gertrude Schaffer, Santa Ana; Miss Vera Tabor, Anaheim; Mrs. Frank Vaughn, Costa Mesa; Miss Marquerite Way, Balboa.

The better baby show, which is another feature of the campaign, has been opened for registrations and the little ones are coming in fast. The babies registered will be given a thorough physical examination by a staff of competent physicians and graduate nurses. They will be graded by points and the highest scores will be awarded prizes. Only a limited number can be accommodated so it is well to register at once. Either mail or bring coupon to headquarters in the Legion hall Santa Ana, or bring baby's name, address, age and parents' name for registration.

MITCHELL GLAD HARBOR SCHOOL MEASURE LAW

Expressing satisfaction over the fact that Gov. C. C. Young had signed the bill allowing the Newport Beach and Costa Mesa regions an opportunity to separate from the Santa Ana high school district, County Superintendent of Schools R. P. Mitchell today announced that he would take the necessary steps for calling an election in the matter just as soon as adequate petitions from the harbor region were filed in his office.

The bill, signed yesterday by the governor, will make it legal for Mitchell to receive and act on such petitions. Former petitions presented to Mitchell could not be acted upon because the law provided no means for the separation.

Mitchell said today that he was ready to carry the matter of an election right through just as soon as the law would allow him to do so. Despite the fact that he believed the law did not allow him to pass on the former petitions, Mitchell pointed out today that he never had been opposed to the separation of the two districts provided it could be carried out legally. He expressed pleasure over the fact that the way is now clear for formation of a high school district in the coast area.

Nelson V. Edgar, Sales manager for the Turner Radio company, is back in Santa Ana. After a week's visit in Chicago, overflowing with enthusiasm for the products of the Grigsby-Grunow company, Manufacturer of Majestic radio, whose five plants he visited as a guest of the company—Edgar was a member of a party of about 200 Southern California Majestic dealers and sales managers who made the trip.

To Chicago on a special train for the express purpose of inspecting the Grigsby-Grunow plants—business did not take up all of the party's time, however, Edgar points out, for the Majestic Manufacturers had mapped out an excellent program of entertainment for their guests, including a luncheon and banquet in the Hotel Stevens, largest hostelry in the world, where 40 acts of vaudeville were enjoyed by the Californians.

The visitors also were guests of the company at the opening baseball game in the American League, in Chicago—Edgar said, too, that he was a member of a party that visited the garage where seven Chicago gangsters recently were murdered in cold blood—inspection of the Majestic factory, the largest radio plant in the world, was intensely interesting, Edgar declared, pointing out that every single part of a Majestic, with the exception of the wooden knobs and name plates, are built from raw materials by Grigsby-Grunow.

The factory at present is operating 24 hours a day with a full force of 6000 women and 3000 men in three shifts, Edgar asserted, it being the first time in history that a radio factory has operated at such volume at this time of the year—20,000 cabinets are in process of manufacture at all times in the cabinet department, which covers five acres, Edgar declared—commenting on the efficiency which has made the company outstanding in its accomplishments in the year it has been in existence, Edgar said that, for instance, smoking during working hours meant immediate dismissal for the offending employee—The minimum wage is $5 per day, but added that many girls make as much as $20 per day—

BEFORE THE MIKE

As in everything else, England likes to be "different" in its scheme of radio things. For instance, it has been said that an announcer over there is known as an "introducer." Likewise, what is known in America as a plain "sports announcer," is known in England as a "commentator."

Thompson

Don Thompson of KPO isn't just another sports announcer. Thompson brings to radio a practical knowledge of sports. His six feet and three inches of bone and muscle made him one of the foremost football players during his college career.

He played "pro" football after that with Ernie Nevers and Brick Muller. Thompson is scheduled to "work" the baseball season this year for the San Francisco station.

New series on the air: Half Hour in a Beauty Parlor, WPG, Atlantic City, Thursdays at 9:30 eastern time.

Popular Duo, WBAL, Baltimore, Sundays at 4 eastern time.

Olinger Male Quartet, KOA, Denver, Saturdays at 9:45 mountain time.

"The Magic of Speech," NBC Red Network, Thursdays at 5:15 eastern time.

There's a woman at one of the controls of WLBW, Oil City, Pa. She's Miss Dorothy Paea, who arranges all studio programs. She has an excellent soprano voice and was one of the first soprano soloists to be heard over WJZ and WEAF.

Not to be outdone by other radio artists, Don Becker has taken to air travel. He is at home at WLW, Cincinnati, all week until Saturday night, when he sings at WGES, Chicago. Between the two cities, Don uses an airplane.

This young woman, Jane Holland Cameron, is the "Sweetest Maid" of several sweet young things who make up the orchestra broadcasting from KSTP, St. Paul, each Thursday. Miss Cameron conducts the orchestra and offers a few selections of her own. The program is composed of popular and semi-classical numbers, interspersed with vocal numbers rendered by Miss Cameron, who has a "sweet" crooning contralto voice too.

Al and Pete, who have been harmonizing at WTAM, Cleveland, for quite a while, are now "showing" at WMAQ, Chicago, on week days and in Cleveland, Sundays. The boys travel between the two cities by airplane.

'MAGELLAN OF RADIO FANS' IS GUIDED BY SET

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Captain J. J. Cadogan, master of the Dollar liner President Hayes, might be termed the "Magellan of radio fans."

He is believed to be the first man to take a standard radio set around the world and keep a complete log of reception during the 110-day cruise. He has just finished his second trip around the globe with the radio receiver on his ship.

Captain Cadogan has made a number of interesting discoveries in his radio pioneering. The world's worst spot for radio reception, according to his log, is the Red Sea. Mid-Pacific perhaps is one of the best locations in the world for a DX fan, for 24 hours out of Honolulu the sea-faring radio fan picked up a station in Sydney, Australia, 4200 miles from his ship. Reception up to 3000 miles was an everyday occurrence, according to the captain.

A standard radio receiving set should become one of the seafaring tools of trade, according to Captain Cadogan, who explains that he has learned to use his set as a barometer. He discovered that poor reception and bad static usually were followed by bad weather and that when he could dial no stations at all, even though his barometer was high and steady, a bad blow was a matter of a day or less away.

Has Simple Receiver The story of the radio set going around the world begins in San Francisco last September when Captain Cadogan received a standard Atwater Kent receiver and speaker.

He had been told that reception of broadcast programs with an ordinary type of receiver was impossible on shipboard because of the proximity of the ship's wireless transmitter.

He avoided that, however, by rigging up a signal light connected with the radio room on the ship. Thus, when he wanted to use his set he was able to glance at the light and find out if the ship was transmitting signals. The wireless operator, also, was able to warn Captain Cadogan if he planned to use the set while the captain was tuning in.

On the first leg of his round-the-world cruise, Captain Cadogan noticed, as he neared the Hawaiian Islands, that signals from United States faded and he began to hear programs from Japanese stations, as well as from transmitters in Shanghai and Calcutta.

Bad Reception in Tropics His ship called at Japanese and Chinese ports and then moved south. His faithful set picked up programs from Japan, China, India and Australia.

The President Hayes cleared port and the Straits and sailed west to the Red Sea. Reception wasn't good in tropical waters, and in the Red Sea it was terrible, he said.

For four days the ship's wireless operator was unable to get signals through an Egyptian station and several times he had to listen in on the captain's set in order to pick up weather and time signals from shore transmitters.

Conditions improved when the ship reached the Mediterranean, and noted on the captain's radio log is "excellent program off Greece."

The President Hayes touched at Naples and then sailed along the coast of Sicily.

Sees and Hears of Eruption One November night as his ship moved along the Sicilian coast, Mount Etna "boiled over." Captain Cadogan, from the bridge of his ship, saw flames shoot thousands of feet in the air and then saw the impressive flow of molten lava pour over the volcano's lips. He went into his cabin and tuned in on a radio station in Birmingham, England, in time to hear a news dispatch describing the eruption read into a microphone more than a thousand miles away.

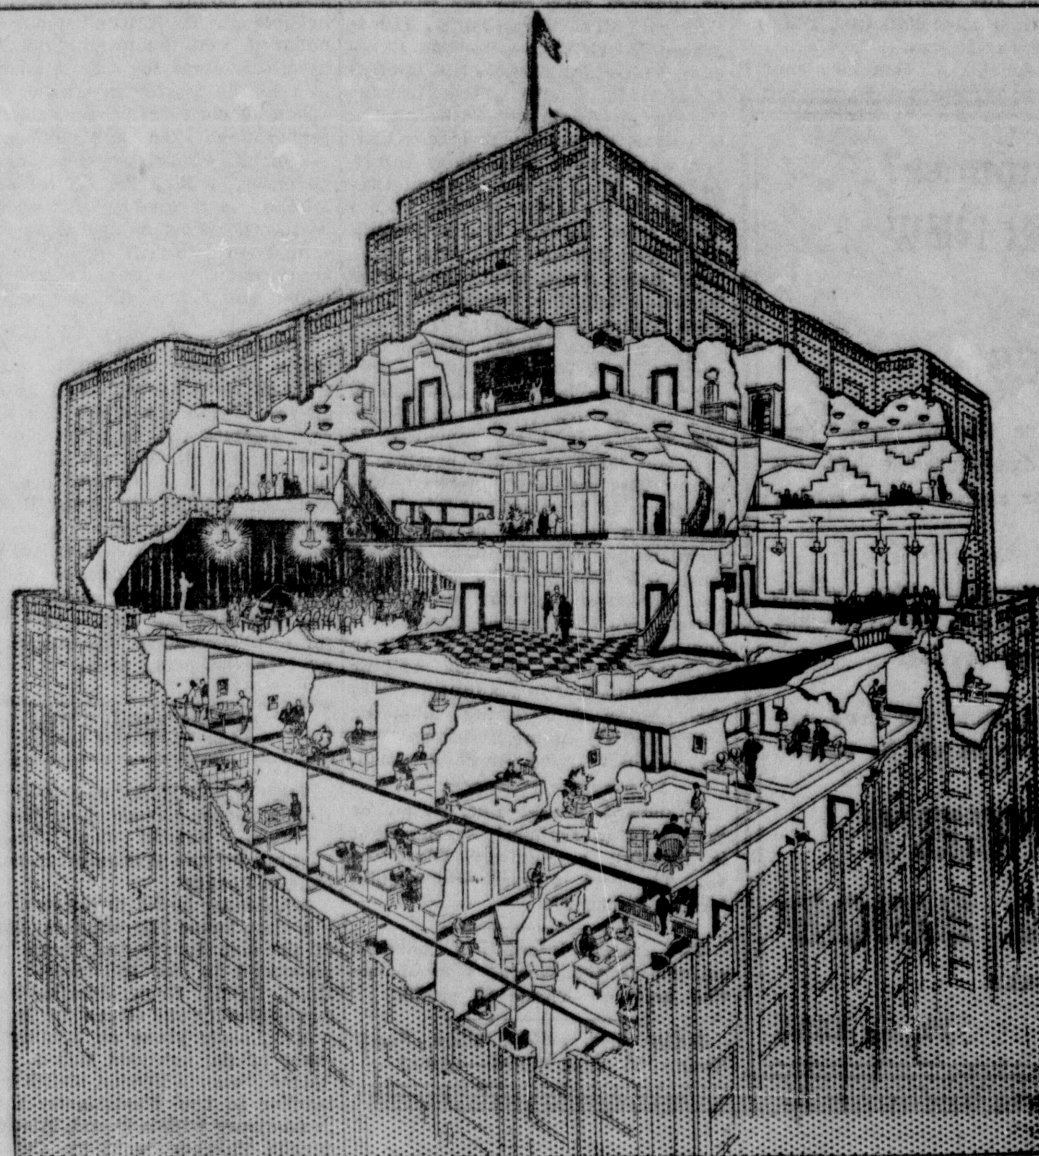

Programs were plentiful in the Mediterranean, and he heard announcements in English, French, Spanish, German and Italian.

November 20, the President Hayes was off the Azores headed for New York. That night Captain Cadogan tuned in WJZ in New York and heard a program on the NBC network. He was still picking up programs from Europe at this time.

His experiences on his second trip around the world were identical with those of his first though on the second cruise he was able to check more accurately the performance as his set as a barometer.

TAXED FOR RADIO The United States is one of the few countries not taxing radio fans. In other countries the tax ranges from as low as five cents in France to $18 in Salvador. The British tax, the U. S. Department of Commerce reports, is $2.45, German $5.70, the Australian $5.85 and the Japanese, $9.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM TO BE SENT OVER NBC

President Hoover's Memorial day message will be broadcast to the entire nation as he speaks in the Arlington amphitheater beside the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The entire proceedings of the solemn memorial service by the Grand Army of the Republic in historic Virginia bowl will be heard through the combined networks of the NBC system from coast to coast from 10 a. m. to 12 noon on Memorial day, May 30.

With President Hoover as the principal speaker, the ceremonies will include the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Capt. John M. Kline, a selection by the U. S. Marine band, talks by Senator Porter H. Dale, of Vermont, and Dr. Thomas E. Green, of the Loyal Legion, and the presentation of the colors and reading of General Logan's order establishing Memorial day.

"There Is No Death," the song traditionally associated with memorial services in towns and hamlets throughout the nation, will be sung by Jeanette McCaffry, accompanied by the Marine band.

Hosea B. Moulton, past commander of the G. A. R., will preside at the exercises.

Details of the program follow: Overture—Marine Band. Call to order—S. G. Mawson, introducing Hosea B.

Provisions Made for Television When Science Becomes Practical

NEW YORK CITY, May 2.—That radio has entered into the "Big Business" field is further proven by the new Columbia Broadcasting System Building being erected in New York City. This artist's cut-out sketch of the building gives an idea of its layout. The new studios, erected because of the need for more space, will occupy the top five floors in a 24-story building.

There will be 15 individual studios on the five floors, each with its own control room. They will range in size from small chambers for individual entertainers to large auditoriums capable of holding more than 250 persons.

Some of the larger ones will be two stories high. All broadcasting, audition and rehearsal halls are to be equipped for sound recording of records and films as well as for radio transmission.

Plans are being made to take care of television transmission when that development becomes practical. Offices of the company are also in these upper five floors.

According to William S. Paley, president of the system, the building should be ready in early fall.

RADIO PROGRAM GOES THROUGH EIGHT STAGES

NEW YORK, May 2.—A radio program, to emerge from its chrysalis stage and be presented to the public, goes through eight separate stages at least if it's to be an NBC program.

The first step is the germination of an idea for a program. This originates, in the majority of cases, in the planning board of the network. This idea goes through the third degree, is picked apart for flaws, reconstructed and then is ready for the second stage.

This is the selection of suitable artists to present the program. Eligible entertainers are picked, and the third stage sees the best ones selected and instructed under direction of the production manager.

The program department takes

EDITOR POINTS TO ACTIVITIES OF ASSOCIATION

By CLOYD MARSHALL, JR., Editor, Radio Doing's

The Radio Trades association in California what the Radio commission has been to broadcasting.

Station conditions had approached a crisis with over 700 stations crowded into 89 channels. But after the Radio commission had been operating for a while, approximately one-third of the stations were eliminated and replaced in different parts of the country, that there was little interference.

The Radio Trades association has straightened out and untangled most of the snarls of the radio merchandising mixups, carried on the work of legislation and assistance to the listeners-in and has been of valuable support to all who are active in the industry.

General Answer This is a general answer to the dealer who asks, "What will the Radio Trades association do for me and why should I join?" We will now try to answer this question more fully and give specific instances of the great beneficial work being done by the association.

A little over five years ago shortly after the Radio Trades association had been organized, it was decided that a radio show would be desirable. The American Exposition company was approached and it was agreed that they would manage and direct an exposition for the association. The first of the series of these radio exhibitions was held at the Biltmore hotel. It was found that the ballroom of the Biltmore was no large enough to accommodate all the displays and the great crowd which was attracted; consequently the Ambassador auditorium was chosen for the following year.

After two years of management by the American Exposition company it was decided that the members of the association were competent to 'promote and manage the annual exhibit. For the last three years the radio shows have been under the exclusive control of a committee appointed by the members of the association.

Provides Necessary Funds This has given the association money for advertising, publicity, broadcasting and many other things to help better the industry, all of which take money to put over in the proper way.

A year ago the association decided to become active in the elimination of man-made static. These lectrical disturbances were so great in some districts that it

Old World Will Get New Waves

PRAGUE, May 2.—The International Radio Conference held here has succeeded in parceling out the wavelengths among the various European nations. According to the plan adopted nearly all stations in the Old World will have different wavelengths, as the plan differs considerably from that adopted at the Brussels Radio conference. It is believed that the new plan will help greatly to relieve the chaotic condition of the present broadcast structure in Europe.

QUEER MIKE TRICK STARTLES ARTISTS

OAKLAND, Calif., May 2.—A shot fired in the KGO studio the other night just as one of the station's sopranos reached high C, caused thousands of listeners to spring out of their easy chairs to watch their loudspeaker in amazement.

Screams, moans, muffled voices and the sound of a police gong followed in quick succession, after which someone shouted "It's all right," adding to the confusion of the radio fans.

Concern for the soprano was turned to laughter when the KGO audience was informed that a transmitter technical error caused the broadcasting of the rehearsal of a blood curdling episode of "The Unseen Hand."

Chains Offer All Kinds Of Programs

(By NEA Service)
NEW YORK, May 2.—It takes all kinds of entertainment to make up a day's program.

The National Broadcasting company, for example, reports it is on the air for a total of 225 hours a week. The programs are made up of the following:

Jazz music, 15 per cent; classical music, 28 per cent; sentimental melodies, old favorites and folk songs, 10 per cent; radio drama, 2 per cent; band music, 4 per cent; radio presentation, 14 per cent; educational programs, 6 per cent; women's programs, 6 per cent; physical exercises, 4 per cent.

Humor, children's programs, religious programs, national programs, etc., take up the remaining time.

PROGRAM FOR I. R. E. SESSION IS ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—Radio engineers from all over the country and some foreign countries are expected to attend the fourth annual convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers, to be held in Washington, D. C., May 13, 14 and 15, according to an announcement made public by officials of the organization.

It is to these scientists that the radio industry and public must turn for the solution of many of the problems involved in every phase of radio communication.

May 13 will mark the seventeenth anniversary of the Institute which functions solely to advance the art and science of radio communication. It numbers among its members nearly all of the men who are or have been prominent in the development of radio in the United States, as well as many noted radio engineers and scientists in other countries.

The deliberations of this great body of radio engineers will be watched with the utmost interest because of the ever increasing influence the art of radio and its application is playing in our every day life.

Dr. A. Hoyt Taylor, Lieutenant Commander, U. S. N. R., announced the appointment of the following convention committee chairman:

Dr. C. B. Joffe—Radio Laboratory, U. S. Bureau of Standards, Convention Chairman.

T. M. L. Davis—U. S. Naval Research Laboratory, Registration and Arrangement.

S. S. Kirby—Radio Laboratory, U. S. Bureau of Standards, Trips.

F. P. Guthrie—RCA, Dinner and Entertainment.

Mrs. L. W. Austin—Ladies.

Prof. A. E. Kennelly—Harvard University and Institute of Technology, Fellowship.

W. G. H. Finch—Publicity.

Convention headquarters will be in the Mayflower hotel and technical sessions are to be held in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce building.

The Institute will meet jointly with The American Section, International Scientific Radio Union on Wednesday at which time over 20 technical papers will be delivered.

The wonderful spirit of cooperation existing between these two organizations and the program arranged for their annual meeting will make Washington the Radio Engineers Mecca this year.

SEIBERLINGS TO DO MAY DAY PROGRAM

With the new scent of May flowers in their nostrils, the Seiberling Singers will don their vocal and instrumental overalls tonight and go a-gardening on the ether. In honor of May day they will do a "Miss Mary" program—with variations.

The program will be opened by the Seiberling Singers quartet who, Vernal Equinox or No Vernal Equinox, have delayed until the month of flowers to greet the season with Gulon's "How D'ye Do Miss Springtime."

The hour will include, besides, Haydn Wood's lovely "Do You Know My Garden," sung by James Melton, Seiberling's own tenor, who is also scheduled to sing "Hills of Home" by Fox, and a quartet performance of Klavels' tribute to the land of eternal springtime, "Aloha, Sunset Land." This last is one of the Seiberling Singers quartet's most popular selections.

The Seiberling hour goes on the air every Thursday night from 6 to 6:30 p. m., Pacific coast time.

MUSIC CONTEST CONDUCTED BY RADIO COMPANY

NEW YORK, May 2.—Prizes valued in the aggregate at more than $15,000 will be awarded for the best music programs held in American homes during Music week—May 5-11.—It was announced today by the National Musicweek committee. The prizes, apportioned to every state in the Union, have been donated by the Grigsby-Grumow company, of Chicago, as its contribution to the work of the Music week committee in stimulating popular devotion to music, especially in the home.

To the person in each state who submits a program of home music which actually has been held in a private home and which shall be adjudged the best submitted in that state, the company will award a Majestic Radio set valued at $116.00. There is no restriction on the type of program, the selections played or the instruments used. The imperative requirement is that the programs actually be carried out. If the family wishes to incorporate into its program radio numbers broadcast from any national or local station at the time the program is being given, such number will be considered on its merits as part of the program as a whole. The inclusion of a radio broadcast number, however, is entirely optional. To accompany the program entered in the contest, the entrant must write a concise description of it not exceeding 500 words. This will be considered in making the award.

All communications from entrants should be addressed to the Contest Editor of the Grigsby-Grumow company, Chicago, and should be mailed to reach him not later than May 26.

Music week, now in its sixth year as an annual event of national observance, begins on the first Sunday in May, May 5, and extends through the following Saturday, May 11. President Hoover has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the committee of governors of the national committee, being the second president to head the committee since its organization. President Coolidge was the first. The committee of governors is composed of the chief executives of 43 states.

Last year 18 governors issued proclamations urging that Music week be observed generally by the people of their respective states, and in that year 2000 cities and towns throughout the country held organized observance of the week. This year it is estimated that at least 2000 communities will observe the period.

DAY POWER DOUBLED

WHK, Cleveland, is now operating during daylight with a power of 2000 watts by authority of the Federal Radio commission. It is thought that this allotment will be permanent if no difficulties are encountered. The regular power, 1000 watts, will be used at night.

CHOOSE "MONITOR" SITE

The proposed department of commerce monitoring station, to be used in checking up on broadcasters, will be erected in Nebraska.

Radio Program Goes Through Eight Stages

care of the fourth step. It plans a definite musical sequence, arranges proper balance and understanding psychology and then sends the program to the continuity department for the fifth stage. Here the type of music to accompany the presentation is decided, what announcer is to work, what he is to say, how the artists are to be introduced and how the sponsorship can be best worked into the program.

The musical and literary research departments form the sixth stage. It is their duty to look over music and literary copyrights to see that nothing is wrong with the numbers in the program. If this is all in order, the orchestra gets the program for the seventh stage.

Size of the orchestra accompanying the program, the personnel, orchestration and other things are agreed upon and after this is settled the program is ready for the final stage—the rehearsals.

The minimum number of rehearsals at the NBC is three, the time of rehearsals averaging six hours for a one-half hour feature. The final dress rehearsal with its finishing and polishing sometimes takes from two or two and a half hours.

Then the minute of absolute silence before the mike, the program is swung over to the air and the work that has been going on for weeks at last shows fruit—if there is no hitch.

WLW BANS SINGING WITH DANCE MUSIC

CINCINNATI, O., May 2.—Radio listening is to be made safe for the dialer who wants his dance music pure and undefiled. Vocal choruses sung by members of dance orchestra broadcast by remote control have been forbidden by WLW. Hereafter, all dance orchestras picked up from points outside the WLW studios must confine their entertainment efforts to dance music and must limit their vocal outbursts to times when they are not on the air.

EDITOR POINTS TO ACTIVITIES OF ASSOCIATION

absolutely stopped all demonstrations of radio sets by dealers and the use of radios by the set owners.

Under the capable leadership of Fred Dean of Fresno and Dean, Long Beach, and the able assistance of Messrs. George Walters, Kenneth G. Ormiston and Don Wallace, and the expenditure of some $2500, not only was a great deal of interference eliminated in Los Angeles county but radio ordinances were passed in the cities of Los Angeles, Santa Paula, San Bernardino and Monrovia.

This successful elimination ordinance is now before the councils of the cities of Ventura, Santa Barbara, Redlands, Riverside, La Habra, Santa Ana, Pasadena and San Diego.

It has taken hard work and many hours of time, which have been given freely by every member of the committee and all the other active members of the association. These regular members have greatly helped to bring about this great step forward in the clearing up of extraneous noises, and for the assistance of better radio reception for radio fans in Southern California.

This forward-looking group has been most active in building up the membership of the association and the roll has steadily grown in the last few years from less than one hundred to almost three hundred.

Chapters of the association have been formed in the following cities: Long Beach, Santa Ana, Pomona, Santa Paula, Pasadena, San Pedro, San Diego and Bakersfield. All divisions are directly affiliated with the main association, but usually meet by themselves once or twice a month to solve their own particular problems.

Educational Move
Another great improvement in the stabilization of the industry has been the formation of the educational committee for the examining of radio service men.

In a new industry such as radio there are bound to be many men who have jumped into it thinking it would give them quick profits, although they knew little or nothing about the actual manufacturing, merchandising or repairing of radio equipment. Probably the ones who have known least about their particular phase of the business have been the repair men, or so-called service men.

A great many of them have a little smattering of technical knowledge acquired from experimenting with their own home-built receiver. In contrast to this there are hundreds of really expert radio technicians who have acquired their knowledge either in the factories or by legitimate instruction.

Examine Service Men
The educational committee, under the direction of Kenneth G. Ormiston and with the assistance of Messrs. David Marshank, George Walters and R. C. Lietner, are now giving examinations to service men. All who qualify are given a pass card which signifies the official recommendation of the Trades association. This card can be shown to all customers and will undoubtedly give the holder a better standing with the person who desires to have a radio repaired.

Within a couple of months the association will advertise and publicize the fact that there are several hundred expert service men in Southern California who have passed the examination of the association and proven competent and trustworthy.

This will give the public confidence in radio, for they will feel a set can be bought with the knowledge that there are expert service men at their command who can keep the receiver in excellent condition.

The Radio Trades association is working diligently for better broadcasting and to assist in every way possible the radio dealer, jobber, manufacturer and fan. It is a great project, worthy of wholehearted support. All members of the industry in Southern California who have not joined the association should do so at once.

A FURTHER SERVICE TO OWNERS OF ALEMITE-EQUIPPED CARS

Genuine Alemite Lubricants—Developed By Alemite Specially for Use in Alemite High Pressure Lubricating Systems—Are Used By the Alemite-ing Stations Listed Below

THE Alemite Systems provide your car with the means to Proper Lubrication. For they force lubricant, under tremendous pressure, to every vital chassis bearing on your car.

But—merely forcing lubricants to those bearings is not enough. You must use the right kind of lubricant. Cheap, unknown "greases" are relatively as dangerous as no lubrication at all.

Because scores of such "greases" were suddenly offered on every side as "fitted to the Alemite Systems"—many of them of such poor quality that it is virtually impossible to force them into the bearings to be lubricated—the makers of the Alemite Systems, in protection to themselves and the public, developed special lubricants for use in the Alemite Systems.

Those lubricants come as the result of years of experiment. They mark the latest automotive science, known as chassis lubrication. They were developed by the ALEMITE people themselves in

LOOK FOR THE YELLOW SIGN
Every Dealer Displaying This Sign Has These Two Special Lubricants for Your Car

1—Alemite Chassis Lubricant—This lubricant is used in the Alemite fittings and is especially designed to stand the high pressure which these systems produce.

2—Alemite Gear Lubricant—For transmissions and differentials. Especially made according to specifications of your car manufacturer.

3—Alemite Universal Joint Lubricant—Will not throw away from universal joints at high speeds.

4—Alemite Wheel Bearing Lubricant—Will lubricate wheel bearings correctly and is heavy enough so that it will not throw into brake seams and cause brake trouble.

plants devoted exclusively to the scientific production of chassis and gear lubricants. These Alemite Lubricants are used by the undersigned stations.

Most people with Alemite-equipped cars demand—as self-protection—that Alemite Lubricants be used when they have their cars lubricated. They have learned that merely having their cars lubricated every 500 miles is not enough. Proper lubrication means regular lubrication with correct lubricants.

To further insure correct Alemite lubrication, go to one of the Alemite-ing Stations listed below—stations using genuine Alemite Lubricants. The Yellow Sign identifies them.

By avoiding the irresponsible "Greasing Stations" that have sprung up everywhere and having your car properly Alemited, your car will last longer and run more smoothly with a minimum of repair bills.

Flames Destroy
House At Talbert

TALBERT, May 2.—A vacant house on the S. E. Talbert ranch which was damaged by fire a week ago, was completely destroyed by fire this morning. Investigation to determine the origin of the flames was under way today.

A car belonging to James Williamson and parked in an adjoining garage was destroyed.

Volunteer fire fighters were unable to save the home owing to lack of water in a tank, but prevented the flames from spreading to other nearby houses.

WE WERE TALKING, MAN AND I

And then he said, "It's not what we make. It's what we save."

But I said (and believe), "It's more than saving. It's what we buy and where we buy it."

We agreed that we must have food. And that we need some clothing and shelter, even in California.

We agreed that much of the food money should go into the creamery products: that there is no substitute for milk, cream, butter and cheese; that for toning up the system, nothing beats buttermilk; that there is no better food (or dessert) than ice cream; that there is no waste in creamery products and that there is no constipation to follow.

Now that all our milkers have passed a medical examination, now that our raw milk herd has been tested (and cleaned up) for abortion (a possible source of undulant fever); now that our laboratory tests all milk and extends its control to all herds (no milk is better than the herds that produce it); now that we have a full-time veterinarian in charge of our herd health, we know (and our patrons know) that our creamery products have no superior and few equals.

PROF. CARL KNOPF DELIVERS
LAST ADDRESS AT CLOSE OF CHURCH TRAINING MEETINGS

"Delving into the old Book with all its wonderful meaning and beauty and with the new knowledge that we have, we can reach across the ages and in a way clasp hands with these men who wrought so well. Thus we may become men and women better prepared to teach and to preach and to represent Christians."

Such were the words spoken last evening by Prof. Carl F. Knopf, who delivered his last address on the subject, "The Prophets of Yesterday and the Problems of Today," at the concluding program of the church training series which has been conducted at the First Methodist church in Santa Ana for the past eight weeks.

Prof. Knopf, is now of the University of Southern California and his many friends in this city considered themselves for untold in having procured his lectures as a feature of the weekly assembly programs during the series. He has been offered and has accepted the Chair of Biblical Philosophy at Yale university.

The speaker had planned to answer questions concerning the discussions which have been considered at the meeting last night, but as only three were asked he changed somewhat the essence of his talk. His theme centered about the idea of preparation for trained Christian leadership.

"Will you accept Jesus as the completion of the Old Testament?" he asked. "Last week we reached the high water mark of the Old Testament, Isaiah, the man of God, was dreaming of the perfect servant of God. Filled with the spirit; he brought the willingness of God to man to endure; despised and misunderstood, but still to serve the world."

Explaining why men today should be trained and prepared to serve so that they may have a mutual love, fellowship and understanding, Knopf said:

"The word 'fulfill' means to fill full and we believe in the Christ who filled full Isaiah's dream of a Christ. Belief in our confidence in the person and life of Jesus."

He briefly sketched the themes and values of a list of books which he declared should be in every home library as new equipment in the study of religion. These included the following:

"The Students' History of the Hebrews," Laura Knott; "The History of the Hebrew Common-wealth," a book which he uses as a text at the university; "Archaeology and the Bible," Barton; "Literature of the Old Testament," Brewer of Columbia university; "The Students' Old Testament," Kent; Moffett's translation of the Old Testament; "Goodspeed's New Testament," which he urged everyone to have; "Old Testament History," Beritz; "The Psalms and Other Sacred Writings," Dr. Eisenlen; "The Makers and Teachers of Judaism," Kent; and Matthew's History of the New Testament Times in Palestine.

Concluding his remarks, Knopf said:

"A great new day may lie ahead for this people and this community and because of this fellowship, so to love, to understand, and to work with our neighbor."

The Boys' Glee club of the Julia Lathrop junior high school, under the direction of Miss Edith Cornell, gave several song selections at the dinner hour last night.

T. P. McKee introduced Jack Snow, who has been directing the class for boys in the principles of engineering; Frank Humphrey, who has conducted a class in collections of stamps and coins; and R. H. Arthur who displayed some of the colored burlesque blarkets made by the boys in his class of Indian lore.

The Rev. Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor, complimented the friends and members of the congregation in having the courage to do the things that they are being asked to do and explaining why the success of the training night series was just at its close an embarrassment, he called for an offering to defer expenses and add some necessary items, such as chairs, to the furnishings of the new building.

How Much a Year
For Floor Coverings

Economical women know that the price paid for any article does not fix its actual worth. If it costs twice as much and it lasts twice as long as another its cost is the same. This is especially true in carpetry.

When you buy a genuine Oriental rug, you have an adventure in actual thrift . . . for with proper care, it will retain its original beauty throughout its life . . . and yours.

Here at Chandler's, we are not only showing an exceptionally attractive array of beautiful imported Oriental rugs in every size and wanted colorings, but in addition, our grouping of domestic weaves offers the widest range of selection in Southern California.

Which ever you select, you will find the greatest economy here . . . and the first cost surprisingly low for such exquisite floor coverings.

TENNIS IS FUN OUT CHAMPION DEFERS STAGE

Whether I shall go in for acting or not is a question. But right now I like the work back stage more than that before the stage. It's a great game and hard one."

To some extent his admirers of tennis world follow him in his amateur ventures. "I suppose tennis playing does help the case," he admitted grudgingly. "The other night a tennis club came here for a theater party. I suppose others do come out for the purpose of seeing me. I probably wonder why I am playing."

He doesn't reveal his plans for his playing.

"The public wants to know? Well, sometimes it's just as good to keep the public guessing. As a matter of fact, I don't know myself."

3 Cars Entered At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 2.—Thirty-three entries have been received for the 400-mile Memorial race here, the speedway management announced today. The number of nominations was the largest since before the World war. In view of the large number of entries it was believed that competition would be particularly keen.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Mateer's Drug Store.—Adv.

FRIDAY CLUB'S AFFAIR DRAWS LARGE CROWD

COSTA MESA, May 2.—The May festival of the Friday Afternoon club is in full swing. From 4:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the savory odor of bacon, sausages, coffee and griddle cakes permeated the air, there has been a steady stream of people. The breakfast menu was served through the morning and until 1:30 p.m. Over 100 were served dinner last night.

The club house is a riot of color. Booths have been provided for various articles, including beautiful handwork, merchandise, flowers and home-made candies.

At 8 p.m. about 300 people witnessed a dance program given through the courtesy of Miss R. Burks, who presented her pupils from Huntington Beach and Costa Mesa. Mrs. Jack Calvin was the piano accompanist.

Thiny tots presented "The Dancing Lesson," "Rolls of Other Nations," "Better Be Good" and "Dutch Group." The "doll" dance, Beverly Bowen; "My Funny Dance," an original dance by Patricia Colvin, and "Jazz Babies," were especially effective.

Acrobatic dances by Jessie McDowell and June Rhoades were unique. Eleanor Miller played a violin solo, "Souvenir." Tap dances, Spanish, Russian and Dutch were all ably represented.

Mrs. Jessie Johnson, of Tustin, was the evening soloist, bringing three beautiful numbers, all symbolic of May time, with Miss Mary Brunner of Santa Ana as accompanist. Mrs. Webster of the Mesa was program chairman.

W. W. Middleton, was awarded a prize.

Tonight the junior auxiliary girls will present an original skit. Dinner will be served again tonight.

BISHOP JONES TALKS BEFORE COLLEGE GROUP

"Is brotherhood possible today?" was the question around which Bishop Paul Jones, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation and prominent leader of youth, built a problematical study of the test of Christian principle being affected today in the economic and social order, when he delivered the main address of the "Y" Day of the Santa Ana Junior college before the student assembly yesterday.

Analyzing the topic, Jones pointed out that society has been organized on a basis which is contrary to the laws of universal brotherhood. Characterized by individualism, the present age shows the product of many groups with strongly dominating group interests, declared Bishop Jones.

From these groups, he further said, people have approached brotherhood from the wrong angle with charity. "A reaching down," assuming the principle form of altruism. Defining brotherhood as a sharing on the same level, Bishop Jones further pointed out the barriers which have been erected against a universal brotherhood. Supporting himself with many manifestations of brotherhood drawn from the field of business and industry, Jones concluded with the forecast that the ideal of universal brotherhood which exists in the individual is ready for expression and that the immediate future is to see a reaching out over the barriers to a more creative life based on the principles of brotherhood.

Typical of adventure which is the key-note of the program of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. the "Y" Day at the college brought a strong emphasis to bear upon the ideals of the two organizations. Opening at 10 o'clock with an outdoor discussion group, the program of the day included several features in which Bishop Jones was the prominent figure. At a luncheon of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinet officers at noon, Bishop Jones briefly commented on the ideal of fellowship which is a part of the program of the Fellowship of Reconciliation. The assembly at 1:00 o'clock at which Bishop Jones was the speaker brought the dedication of the Y. M. C. A. room which has been newly decorated and furnished as a social and study room for men of the college by a committee composed of William Hewitt, Frank Miles, and Bill Crawford. C. C. Stewart, popular baritone on the college faculty, sang two numbers, "Invictus" and "Friend of Mine."

An informal mixer at 4 o'clock in the Y hut was the final event of the day. Bishop Jones informally recounted experiences of his life and refreshments were served by a committee of the Y. W. C. A. Guests of the two organizations during the day were Hugh Landrum, newly appointed district secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Miss Dorothy Cartwright, Girl Reserve secretary of Santa Ana; Bob Pollard and Bruce M. Burress, representatives from the Y. M. C. A. of Compton Junior college.

317 ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING TRAFFIC RULES

Traffic violations are still way out in front in police department arrests, according to the report filed yesterday by Chief L. C. Rogers covering the work of the department for the month of April. The total number of cases handled as shown under the traffic violation heading was 317, and this was more than 78 per cent of the total cases handled by the force during the entire month, 409. The number of cases under the same division of the report for the previous month was 276 and for April 1928, the score was much less, totaling 227.

Drunks were nearly twice as plentiful during April as they were in March, totaling 22 as compared to 12 for the third month, and were way ahead of April last year when only six drunk cases were shown on the report. Other liquor cases under various divisions of the April report totaled six, bringing the entire number of liquor cases handled by the force for the month to the figure of 28.

Motor officers accounted for 39 of the month's arrests, as compared with 30 for March and 59 for April, 1928. Speeders ranked way ahead in the activities of the motor officers, with 30 out of the total of 33 for the month.

City court proceedings, as listed separately on the report, ran 45, leading both last month and April a year ago, whose totals were 31 and 24 respectively.

Justice court arrests shown in the report accounted for five of the month's total, while juvenile court took only two. Arrests made for the sheriff's office and police of other cities added four to the list.

Shakespearean Program Will Be Presented Friday Night

Lovers of Shakespeare throughout the county are looking forward with interest to the Shakespearean program to be presented at the Visel studio, 139 North Glassell street, Orange, by Miss Dorothy Jean Blakely tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Three of Shakespeare's best known plays, "The Merchant of Venice," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Hamlet," will be reviewed in an interesting manner by Miss Maud Robertson of Laguna Beach, Miss Elizabeth Thomas of Anaheim, and Miss LeBlanc of Orange who will emphasize the important incidents in each production.

Scenes from the three plays will be enacted by Miss Helen Wieseman, Miss Vivian Rogers, Miss Louane Leech, Miss Faye Stinson, Miss Ramona Williams, and Miss Neva-Faye Jordan, all of whom are advanced pupils of Holly Lash Visel.

This is the first program to be presented by Miss Blakely who has recently joined the faculty of the Visel studio in order to organize a class in professional dramatics.

Miss Blakely, who is a graduate of Cumnock School of Expression in Los Angeles, is well fitted to take charge of this work as her experience extends over a number of years of work in stock companies throughout the United States and Canada.

She has just completed an engagement with Henry Duffy's company of Portland, Ore.

The talented young woman will include in her dramatics class the art of make-up, stage deportment and ethics, characterization, systematized memorizing of lines, diction, and professional appearance in production.

Classes are to open soon and those interested in taking the course are asked to apply at the Visel studio in Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilde Complimented By Hugh Rannels

As a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilde who are to leave next week for Auburn, R. I., to make their future home, Hugh Rannels was host at a charmingly appointed party held at his home in Tustin.

Mr. Rannels and Mr. Wilde have been members of the popular Presbyterian quartet for a number of years. Other members include A. J. Garraway and Walter Vieira with Miss Ruth Armstrong acting as accompanist. The quartet has sung at church affairs and at Legion meetings, on concerts, at musicales and at almost every kind of gathering ever heard in this county, and it is with deep regret that Santa Anans have heard of Mr. Wilde's departure.

A beautiful musical program had been arranged by Mr. Rannels for last night's party and it was opened with two charming solos by Cecil Fross Willis who was followed by Sally Lee Scales and A. J. Garraway who sang several duets.

Mr. Garraway also favored with a solo after which Earl Fraser, one of the city's most brilliant pianists, gave two selections.

Walter Vieira sang a solo and afterwards joined Mr. Garraway in two duets.

Especially lovely were the songs chosen by Mr. Wilde for his part in the program.

Cello selections were presented by Edward Burns and three amusing little readings were given by Miss Margaret Gaebe.

The program was conducted with numbers by the quartet and a solo by Mr. Rannels.

Those present for the affair besides Mr. Rannels, the host, were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scales, Earl Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dabbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vieira, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Garraway, Miss Margaret Rust, Miss Margaret Gaebe, Charles Woolston, Edward Burns, Miss Ruth Armstrong, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilde.

Emrys D. White Home Is Setting for Two Affairs

The Emrys D. White home at 2115 North Broadway has been the scene of two delightful affairs this week. The first occurred on Monday when Mrs. White and Mrs. W. H. DeWolfe entertained in honor of Mrs. White's sister-in-law, Miss Carolyn White of Montana, who has been spending the winter here with her mother, Mrs. B. F. party given yesterday by Mrs. White, Mrs. DeWolfe and Mrs. Fred C. Rowland.

Throughout the White home, baskets of graceful iris in tones of brown, yellow, and blue were arranged and the same lovely colors were reflected in appointments for the buffet luncheon that was served by the hostesses with the assistance of Mrs. W. H. Spurgeon, Mrs. Mark B. Lacy, Mrs. C. B. Diehl, Mrs. C. M. Featherly, Mrs. Fred C. Rowland and Mrs. Dexter Ball.

The afternoon hours were devoted to bridge and Mrs. Hugh J. Lowe, the fortunate holder of high score, was presented with a pretty gift and equally attractive prizes were received by Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth, second, and Mrs. Ben Kellogg, low. A guest prize was presented Miss White, who is to leave soon for her home.

Yesterday's event was bright with quantities of gorgeous blossoms from the gardens of the many friends of the hostesses. Especially attractive were the dainty bouquets arranged in May baskets at each of the luncheon tables.

The same glowing tones were expressed in the spring time tallies which marked places at the card tables for the afternoon's series of bridge games that were won by Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, Mrs. Jack Porter, of Orange, and Mrs. D. E. Maloney. They received appropriate gifts and Mrs. O. H. Esge was suitably consoled.

Assisting Mrs. White, Mrs. DeWolfe and Mrs. Rowland in greeting their guests, adding bridge scores, and other hostess duties were Miss Carolyn White, Mrs. Mark B. Lacy, Mrs. W. H. Spurgeon Jr., Mrs. Carl Newman, and Mrs. C. M. Featherly.

Among the many delightful May day parties the one given last night by Mrs. Ralph Raitt and Mrs. H. A. Woodward of Laguna Beach at Mrs. Raitt's home, 415 McCloy street in honor of Miss Murrell Rash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rash, whose marriage to Barker Paul Woodward of Los Angeles will be an event of the early summer.

The evening was quickly passed in cheery conversation as guests hemmed, Miss Rash was presented with a large May basket, supposedly filled with sweet peas, that proved to contain an assortment of lovely gifts for her.

The delicious supper was served at small tables centered with crystal baskets of pink sweet peas with dainty nut cups representing small May baskets in pink and green tints.

Guests included Miss Murrell Rash, Mrs. C. H. Rash, Mrs. William Rash, Mrs. Henry Siefert, Miss Marian Young, Mrs. Merle Taylor, Mrs. W. G. Giddard, Mrs. J. T. Raitt, Mrs. Thomas Oglosby, Miss Ethel Richardson, Miss Marie Rash, Miss Etta Conkle of this city, Mrs. H. J. Woodward and Miss Otela Woodward of Ramona, Mrs. W. E. Woodward and Mrs. Francis Lego of San Diego, Miss Winifred Woodward and Miss Fern Fenster of Eagle Rock, Mrs. Phillip J. Reifel Jr. of Ontario, and Mrs. A. A. Woodward of Los Angeles.

Pretty Spring Time Party Is Held at Selway Home

A pretty spring time party was that held last night by Mrs. Francis Selway and her sister, Miss Emily Holmes, at Mrs. Selway's attractive home near Tustin as a compliment to Miss Bonnie Dunham who is to marry Roy D. Shipp of this city in June.

The early part of the evening was devoted to bridge with high scores going to Miss Annie Tarver and Mrs. Claude Shipp who received pretty gifts.

While card tables were prepared for the dainty supper, the honoree was presented with a number of useful articles for the kitchen of her new home.

Supper tables were especially attractive with their crystal baskets of yellow rose buds and other appointments in the same golden tones.

Guests included the Misses Virginia Berry, Anne Tarver, Murrell Knox, Edith Burkett, Dorothy Maroon, Melba Paterson, Sara Hales, Lovena O'Toole, Aloyce Majors, Beth Westcott, Barbara Westcott, Lucy Holmes, Doris Goff, and Jean Rowland, Mrs. Rollo R. Hays Jr., Mrs. Gordon Hendrie, Mrs. Fred Gregory, Mrs. Claude Shipp, Mrs. Roy C. Kidder.

Interest Quickens In Appearance Here of Ellen Beach Yaw

As time draws near for the appearance in this city of Madame Ellen Beach Yaw, known all over the musical world as "Lark Ellen," interest quickens in the musical event planned by Julia Leathrop Parent-Teacher association, and it is believed that the high school auditorium will be the scene tomorrow night, one of the largest crowds of the spring entertainment season, when the curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock for Mme. Yaw's concert.

Those who have heard this famous singer, agree that her name of "Lark Ellen" is wonderfully appropriate, for the tones of her voice are unusually silvery and clear, and encompass a range of two full octaves. Critics declare that her voice has grown richer and fuller since her return to this country from several years of concertizing in Europe.

Ellen Beach Yaw's wonderful talent was discovered when she was a child of four, and when she was six years old, and was attending singing school in New York state where she received special attention from the director. Her professional training started a few years later under Madame Harver Torpade of New York City, with whom she later went to Europe for study and concertizing. After ten years in Europe she made her American debut with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company in New York City, where, according to critics who revived the event, she received "a demonstration of approval that rocked and shook the opera house."

Her Metropolitan engagement was followed by another period of concertizing in Europe and this country which continued until the outbreak of the World War. Following the war, the singer gave up her career for a few years to devote her time to her mother, and for three years she made no public appearances. Then she returned to Europe where her success on the concert stage was greater than ever, and appearances in London and Paris met with a remarkable enthusiasm.

Her return to the United States was hailed with delight by her admirers, and a royal welcome has been accorded her at every professional appearance. Last year during the Pacific Southwest exposition held in Long Beach, one day was given over to the prima donna and designated as "Lark Ellen day." Her concert that evening, given in the entertainment kiosk in the very center of the "pool of reflections," was declared to be the high light of the exposition.

The WOMAN'S DAY

And still they chatter about Marion Talley, and why she did it! Which reminds us of Marion's mother who mildly commented that she didn't know just why Marion was doing it, but whatever she wanted to do was okay with her. At first thought, one might make a crack at the supineness of the maternal spirit exhibited here. Still, when a woman child has raised a parent to fame and fortune, it is rather meek and seemingly that the child, who happens to be an adult, has something to say about how and where the family which she is supporting shall live. This is a typically American belief. Many a foreign parent lives on his children, dictates their lives, and gets away with it.

ANNA'S SNUB
Anna Pavlova, famous dancer, has been sending back to Moscow about $500 a year to help members of the Moscow grand opera ballet who are rather destitute. This year the money was sent back. Anna was called "darling of capitalists" and commanded to "take back her gold."

That might be principle and command our respect. Again, it might merely be sour grapes because one of them had prospered and they had not.

Most of us prefer the dramatic resture which makes a person whom we envy feel small rather than receiving from them any of the things we need.

ONE PLUME HIGHER
Queen Mary who is about to abdicate at the spring royal presentations, has sent out word that dresses must be a little longer than last year; trains not extend more than 18 inches; a fan or bouquet must be carried; plumes must be worn in the hair, the middle one higher than the other two, and that arms must not be too bare.

These rules certainly simplify things for the ladies favored to attend. But we would favor less uniformity from the viewpoint of the innocent spectator.

YE GODS!
Lady Gough wrote a book on etiquette in 1863 in which she paraphrased—"The perfect hostess will see to it that the works of male and female authors be properly separated on her bookshelves. Their proximity unless they happen to be married should not be tolerated."

SHE FOOLED 'EM
Speaking of marriage or career, and marriage and career, as nobody was, Mrs. Bina West, head of the world's largest woman's insurance society, and a power in Republican politics, recently married. She is nearly 62. She explained she had "never had time to get around to it before."

Incidentally, her political enemies shorted at the fact, and thought her marriage to a man outside her state disqualified her as state committee member. She fooled them. She announced she was keeping her Port Huron, Mich., home as a summer home.

They'll have to stay up late and get up early to get ahead of these women politicians trained in a day when there had little feminine support, and so got onto all the tricks of the trade in the male politician's kit.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

What Causes These Dark Rings? I have a letter from a reader asking me if I know what causes dark, congested areas around the eyes and in the corners? I do. These congested areas are caused by toxins and the reason they show up in that one spot is because the tissue surrounding the eye is so delicate and thin that it provides an opaque screen for the toxins.

A toxin is defined as "any of a class of poisonous compounds of animal, bacterial or vegetable origin. They are unstable secretion products of organisms."

Toxins are the result of many ailments. They may show up when one has a heavy cold, an attack of indigestion, invariably they accompany constipation, are the result of over-work or fatigue, headache, loss of sleep, worry, fits of temper, fright, and always they accompany serious organic disturbances. Look for the cause in a physical or mental disturbance; the dark areas caused by the toxins are but the clanging bell at the crossing indicating trouble in the body.

TODAY'S RECIPE Danish Pudding

1/2 of 1 envelope of Knox gelatin
1 cup fine sugar
6 eggs—separate
2 lemons, juice and grated rind
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
Pinch of salt

Fresh eggs are a drug in the market these days and the wise housekeeper will take advantage of the fact and use them as far as possible. The recipe for today would serve with a dinner featuring spring vegetables.

The first thing to do is to put the gelatin to soak in the half-cup of cold water; later, it is completely dissolved in the boiling water, the dish set over hot water. That being disposed of we will—

Separate the eggs, put the whites in the ice box for the moment and beat the yolks lemon-yellow, adding the sugar while beating. The lemon juice and grated peel are added next, then the dissolved gelatin is well mixed through the eggs and that part is set aside while the whites are beaten fluffy and dry.

Fold them into the yellow part with a beating motion, put the pudding into a bowl rinsed in cold water and set it away to chill and jelly for some three hours. Serve in sherbet glasses with or without whipped cream on top.

About 115 calories make the total in eight individual servings. These calories are fairly divided between the sugar carbohydrates and the egg proteins—energy is supplied and tissue-building material supplied.

This is an ideal dessert for children.

Spring chicken and new peas will soon be with us and while they are delicious food cooked as we know them you will find the Mexican way of cooking both foods an agreeable change.

The recipe is one of those in the current leaflet, MEXICAN COOKERY, available free of charge if you send a stamped self-addressed envelope this week.

ANN MEREDITH.

Do Parents Keep Faith With Children?

OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Never have I been accused of being set myself up to be a reformer nor tried to interfere with the liberty of other people; neither have I criticized them for holding tenets opposite to mine.

But occasionally it behooves me to express an opinion. This urge to express myself now follows an article I have just read about parents making plans for their children. So far—excellent! But this writer says that since times have changed and parents are living their own lives and changing the old solitaire and sock-darning evenings for gay parties of the more or less sophisticated type, why play the hypocrite and pretend to the children to be what they're not? In this day of close quarters and small apartments the children know it anyway.

We cannot take up space by saying that parents shouldn't do things their children shouldn't know, and we can't take up still more space by saying that such parents are in a great minority. Neither is the answer, for although both may be true, the question is just the same.

Children are idealists. Their knowledge of life should come slowly, naturally—and their ideals should be kept intact as long as possible. Oh, no, we don't want to make smug little prigs out of them. Prizes grow up into bigots usually, "than which there is nothing else worse!"

But aside from all maudlin sentiment—there is an idealistic faith that children have in parents that no one has a right to destroy. Certainly I cannot understand the mother or father who wishes to destroy it. The keep a child's faith is not hypocrisy. Anyway, if it is hypocrisy, it is the one excusable kind.

For what the child needs more than the truth about his parents in the case is his faith in them. They'll tell you. They all dislike to hear their parents talk of doing things that instinctively offend them—the children, I mean.

I heard a young couple one day laughing about a wild party before their children; how one Millie had gotten "spifflicated" before his second cocktail and how embarrassed the hostess was until his wife told her he was "spifflicated" before he came, and got her things and drove him home. There was more of the same talk, and I could tell that their twelve-year-old girl and ten-year-old boy hated it by their distressed expressions.

WALKER

"You are tired out from restin'," says Nappus to Gummy in the William Fox all-talkie, all-negro sensation, "Hearts in Dixie," now on the West Coast-Walker screen, and the audience goes off on another wild careening gale of laughter.

In a world where novelty is at a premium, Fox Movietone has turned out a picture that is one of the unique productions of the year. It does not take many digits of one hand to strike off the number of all-negro stories that have ever been written. And critical marks could be made about almost any of them. Either they aimed to teach a lesson or they were lectures on race, either they didn't show enough of the Negro life or they were dull portrayals of too much of it.

But "Hearts in Dixie" is none of these. Rollicking at some moments, intensely pathetic at others, it is among the most richly entertaining pictures that have ever been produced.

Probably one of the secrets of its attractiveness are the full-throated songs that sometimes come roaring out from the screen and sometimes barely whisper their nuances of feeling. Howard Jackson did a masterful job with these tunes, selecting some from native songs, and composing others especially for this all-talkie.

It will be long before Stepin Fetchit will be forgotten as the immortal character, "Gummy." He is perfectly the languid, lazy negro husband who would much rather doze in the sun than bend his back over the woodpile. And yet his feet, always paining him so terribly in the daytime, miraculously forget their ailments at night as he twists ecstatically in a giddy black bottom. And, at times, when he is courting a good working wife, he can be the "persuadingest man."

YOST BROADWAY

Few pictures are more popular in their appeal than those dealing with the glamorous life of the nomads who live and work under the "big top" in a traveling circus, so the FBO special production, "The Circus Kid," opening tonight at the Broadway theater, is expected to prove unusually entertaining.

Directed by George B. Seitz, a veteran with many successful screen productions to his credit, its fast and thrilling action presents a complete circus performance that in-

WEST END

In the confined area of a freight steamer on a long voyage through tropic seas, with withering heat beating down upon it day after day, it is inevitable that human passions should have unrestrained play. When to this is added the presence of a fascinating woman passenger, whose wild turn the heads of a half-dozen men and set them to battling with each other for her smiles, the tense drama of the situation may well be imagined.

This is the unusual setting of FBO's powerful melodrama of the high seas, "The Singapore Mutiny," at the West End theater with Ralph Ince and beautiful Estelle Taylor in the leading roles.

In addition to playing the role of a stokehold bully, Ince directed the photoplay with a fine sense of dramatic values. Miss Taylor's characterization of the adventures is de-

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAE COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Goofygoon picked up in speed. Said he, "You Tinymites won't need to worry now, much longer. We will soon be on the ground. I see the earth not far below, and that is where we're going to go. I'll fly around until a real nice landing place I've found."

"All right," said Scouty. "Hip, hurray! We'll do whatever you may say. But kindly make our landing quick. My arms are all tired out." "Mine, too," snapped Clowzy. "That's not all, I'm just about all set to fall, but I just guess I'll hold my tongue, 'cause I don't like to pout."

They kept on sailing through the air. The big bird dipped down here and there and suddenly it swooped low, and shouted, "Ah! That's grand. I see a clear place, nice and green, and my, but it's a pretty scene. There never was a better place for me to try and land."

He dipped for all that he was worth and shortly touched his feet to earth. "We're landed," shouted Clowzy. "Oh, what a wonderful relief. I didn't know that I was strong enough to grip that bird so long. But now we've come to safety, when I feared we'd come to grief."

When they had walked around a bit and once again were feeling fit, wee Coppy said, "Let's search now for our cabin. It's nearby. I'm sure of that because I saw it go, and we were just about here when it toppled from the sky."

They started searching far and near. The Goofygoon then cried, "It's here! I've found your little cabin and it's smashed to fragments now." And sure enough, he was quite right. The cabin was a sad, sad sight. "We can't rebuild it," Clowzy cried. "Cause none of us know how."

EVENING SALUTATION

A cheerful life is what the muses love.
A soaring spirit is their prime delight.
—Wordsworth.

TEMPERANCE INSTRUCTION

The California Woman's Christian Temperance Union is carrying on the same propaganda today that it did during its early days. The one in charge of scientific temperance instruction in the state is an Orange county resident, Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess of Orange.

It is teaching the effects of alcohol and narcotics upon the system, it is endeavoring to have the law which provides for such teaching in the public schools enforced. The organization is faithful and alert at all times. It has been giving prizes for the best essays on the history of the temperance reform and other phases of the temperance question. It has been issuing blotters carrying the sentiments for which it stands. For example, this is the language of one of them:

At a dog show held in a large city, this was posted in conspicuous places, "SMOKING NOT ALLOWED—IT HURTS THE DOGS."

If tobacco smoke is bad for dogs, is it not equally bad for boys and girls?

There is no more important work which can be done by any organization than impressing 'he you' with the facts concerning the liquor effects such as those of us who are older were impressed with in our childhood.

The observations of people who have studied this line through a long period of years emphasizes the effect the habit of drinking has upon the lives of people. Yet, it is extremely beneficial when such a man as Dr. Mayo, one of the famous surgeons of Rochester, Minnesota, makes such a strong declaration as he did when he was on a visit to Los Angeles a few days ago. He said:

"Only the froth of society is really opposed to prohibition in America. The great bulk of our population is quite satisfied with it and, from the point of view of public health, there never has been any question but that abstinence from liquor would prove extremely beneficial.

"Water is a much overlooked factor in the cause of prohibition." He pointed to Vienna to prove his case. "There," he said, "with the creation of an adequate supply of good drinking water, consumption of alcohol has fallen off 40 per cent in ten years."

THE FUTURE OF DEMOCRACY

We have heard a great deal in recent years about the growth of dictatorships and the failures of democracy. Italy has been much in the lime-light since Mussolini has swept its democratic constitution off the boards. The military dictatorship in Spain, the autocracy of the Soviets, and the overthrowing of the Constitution of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, have all been played up in the headlines. The impression has gotten abroad that democracy is destined for a fall.

Now just what are the facts? Perhaps we have become needlessly alarmed. Take Russia. Russia, autocratic though it may be, is not nearly so autocratic as it was under the czars. The Soviet party has over two million members, and the rulers of Russia today are the creation of that party. That certainly is more representative than the rule of one man, as under the czars. Germany, which was imperialistic before the war, has one of the most democratic constitutions in Europe today. If Hungary is under a dictatorship, Czechoslovakia and Austria, also parts of the Austro-Hungarian empire before the war, are thoroughly democratic. The Scandinavian countries and Holland are no less democratic than they were. England has broadened its democracy by giving women the franchise. France is still entrenched in democracy. So is Switzerland. China is moving toward a greater democracy, Japan also, Mexico also. Not one South American country has gone backward, and many have gone forward.

It is well to bear these facts in mind. The most intelligent, the most forward-looking nations of the world are democratic or moving in that direction. Surely, we need not fear for democracy, knowing these facts. The swashbuckling of a Mussolini should not frighten us. Have we forgotten the German Kaiser and what became of him?

OUR NEW MONEY

On the first of July, we are informed, our new and smaller money will come to our hands. It will be worth exactly the same as the larger money, but it will for a few weeks be a novelty. The only regret is that some of it will be and continue to be so strange to us. We shall all become very familiar with the portrait of Washington on the one dollar bill, a little less familiar with the portrait of Lincoln on the five dollar bill, less familiar still with the portrait of Hamilton on the ten. A comparative few will ever see the picture of Jackson on the twenty, fewer still of Grant on the fifty, and only the rare man will see Franklin on the hundred, McKinley on the five hundred, Cleveland on the thousand, Madison on the five thousand, and Chase on the ten thousand. We shall have to go to the picture gallery for most of them, rather than carrying them about in our pockets.

We have been wondering how the present size of our paper currency ever came into being. There is nothing that corresponds to that size in the currency of the older nations. We can see no reason why our currency should have been quite so large and out of proportion. We know that there is to be a great saving to the government in its paper bill. The paper to be conserved will amount to 440 tons, and the printer's ink to 450 tons. The paper to be saved will cover ten 100-acre farms. What shall be said about the saving in leather in the pockets of the millions who carry their money in leather wallets?

Still we suspect that the matter of economy has entered very little into the making of the change. After a few months we will forget the old size, and ten years hence there will be those who will never have seen the old money, unless it be in an antiquarian's shop. About July 1, however, we predict that it will be the most animated subject of conversation among the citizens of the United States.

MR. HOOVER AND THE PRESS

Mr. Hoover announced some time ago that he would limit his public addresses to private gatherings to three or four during the year. Thus far he has adhered to that decision. The Daughters of the American Revolution have always been addressed by the President of the United States at their annual meeting. Mr. Hoover not only courteously declined to speak, but did not even send a message. In the same way he has declined all invitations to speak at conventions or organizations. Mr. Coolidge was very generous of his time and his presence in this regard. During the last months of his administration he went all the way to Florida to speak at the dedication of Mr. Bok's chimneys. No president of recent decades has addressed so many different organizations, on such a variety of themes, as did Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Hoover has broken that precedent.

But we notice that Mr. Hoover is inclined to make exceptions. Recently he addressed the Gridiron Club in New York, and the other day he tentatively accepted an invitation to speak at the convention of Southern newspaper publishers which is to be held in Asheville, North Carolina, July 4.

The fourth estate, as the newspaper is sometimes called, is a powerful factor in the social and political life of today, and Mr. Hoover undoubtedly recognizes it as such. For this reason he finds it good tactics to have its favor and its support. The press is the most powerful agency of news dissemination and propaganda in the country. When, some years ago, a tacit agreement was made by the press of the country to ignore Senator La Follette, and his name never appeared in the news or editorial columns of the press, it was almost as if Senator La Follette did not exist. Sober second thought on the part of the press led to a modification of this ostracism, but the incident served to show what the press could do, not by attacking a man or his policies, but just by ignoring them.

Mr. Hoover recognized the power of the press, and it is evident that he wants to keep in touch and in favor with it. But we predict that Mr. Hoover will not compromise himself a particle to retain its favor. He will, however, continue to recognize it as the most important channel through which he can get his policies and his ideas across to the people of the country.

Surpassing Tables By American Wives

Pasadena Star-News

Hats off to the American housewife! She is a surpassing provider of delectable foods for her dinner table. She is sustaining friend husband and her family and their mutual friends with viands very tempting to the palate. Milady of the American home is given a high compliment by the National Bureau of Economic Research, after a year's survey. This bureau "commends in high terms the table the American housewife sets before her family; never before was it so aesthetically attractive, never more varied, never more palatable."

This investigation was made on behalf of the unemployment conference, of which President Hoover is chairman.

Much is written and spoken about the supposed frivolity of many American housewives and their supposed neglect of the home. It is pleasing to have a refutation of this sweeping indictment from a source so high and so competent as the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Truth is, much of the criticism of wives and mothers either is exaggerated or wholly groundless. Conditions of life have changed greatly in the last three decades. Women may not stay as close to the home as formerly, but many of them, while having many activities and pleasures outside the home do not neglect the home or the family. In many instances the housewife is a better housekeeper because of the fact that she is active in clubs and in other things outside her own home.

Stop the Fruit Fly

Fresno Morning Republican

Both good spirit and self preservation will cause the people of California to give every possible support to the people of Florida in fighting the Mediterranean fruit fly.

This terrible pest will cause untold damage, first in Florida and next in every other semi-tropical fruit state, unless it is rooted out.

Senators Johnson and Shortridge of California are pledged to support of the wiping out of this insect.

In fact, the people of the United States cannot afford now to permit any life to exist in this country on a "toleration" basis, unless that life contributes to the happiness and sustenance of the American people.

We cannot go on the "immunity theory" regarding animals or plants or birds or insects. We may hold to that theory regarding disease or vice. But it will not do to tolerate rats or moths because they are "good for our souls."

We cannot let coyotes increase in our farm lands on the general notion that to have coyotes in our midst tests our souls and so strengthens our characters.

"Lead us not into temptation," prayed the Lord and He meant it. So equally, we can say, deliver us from the evil of tigers and plant lice and Johnson grass, by destroying them.

A League Against Ugliness

New York Times

If the Mock-Turtle and the Gryphon had lived to hear of the new Anti-Ugliness League in Germany, they would doubtless have included it among the other branches of arithmetic. Uglification is not a subject to be allowed to flourish untrammelled, even in Wonderland, and in Germany they are going to give it every possible setback.

Leagues to beautify roads, back yards, parks, houses and city streets are not uncommon. Yet, commendable as these projects are, they are not nearly as important for the cultivation of public taste and morals as a deliberate plan to improve the appearance of the human race. If children be have in well-kept surroundings, and grown people respond to the gentle influence of charming environment, they should react more quickly and profoundly to good looks in other people.

As soon as the German methods of anti-ugliness are announced, it is to be hoped that New York will become a member of the league. After a few years of police enforcement we should all be so improved in appearance that a ride in the subway would be a pleasure. Instead of gazing with melancholy at the row of lopsided, sallow, inert faces now composing the opposite side of the car, we should be uplifted by an inspection of a collection of noble countenances.

Trying to Put Him on His Feet!

More Truth Than Poetry

THE ROBIN

The cut worm and the beetle
The aphid and the slug,
Stroll safe and sound all day around
The garden I have dug.
The robin in the elm tree
His lyric solo chants
The while they feed with avid greed
Upon my tender plants.

The earth worm spends long hours
Of stern unwearying toil
To turn the loam about my home
To rich and fertile soil.
The robin swiftly notes him,
Swoops down like a shot
And my poor friend has met his end—
Devoured upon the spot.

Far better might the robin
His beak and claws employ
The hungry slugs and evil bugs
To capture and destroy,
Instead of constituting
Himself the mortal foe
Of harmless worms whose twists and turns
But help my garden grow.

But when, just after sunset
He perches on a bough
And, clear and strong pours forth the song
That he is singing now
And when a distant robin
His thrilling cry repeats
For all of me, he can make free
With all the worms he eats.

Henry Ford As A Benefactor

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

NOTE.—The plan for stabilized prosperity endorsed by President Hoover and which is an important part of his program was perfected by the authors of this article. That plan will be the theme of these articles, and each article will be a step along the path toward understanding and keeping that prosperity.

The five-dollar-a-day minimum wage announcement and the five-day week announcement, coming as they did from Henry Ford, the most successful business man of our time, startled the whole world.

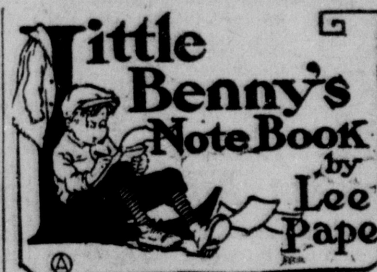

No other man ever made so large a fortune solely by rendering service; and since the evidence of this service is rolling along on every highway, the people nowhere resent the fact that he has taken them in, in prices, millions of dollars more than he has paid them in wages. Even the Fundamentalists have not denounced him for his new commandment: "Five days shalt thou labor and do all thy work."

"Malefactors of Great Wealth," Roosevelt called some of the multi-millionaires. Henry Ford, alone among them, is now acclaimed a "Benefactor of Great Wealth." And that, even though he is no benefactor at all, in the sense of giving away money.

Blessings he has given away abundantly; but not as a philanthropist. The unprecedented standard of living which we enjoy today in the United States is due largely to the growth of the automobile industry. And Henry Ford, more than any other man, is responsible for that growth.

To him, therefore, millions of people owe much of the health, comfort, leisure, and peace of mind which have come to them as by-products of the automobile industry.

I was sitting on Mary Watkins' front steps having a debate with her about which is the most useful, knowing how to swim or knowing how to dance, her saying dancing and me saying swimming, saying, G wizz, supposing you saw somebody drowning in deep water and you was the best dancer in the world, good nite what good would that do you if you had to go and save them and didn't know how to swim?

You could throw them a rope couldn't you? Mary Watkins said, and I said, Not if they was too far out and you didn't have a rope anyway, you couldn't, and she said, Well anyway dancing makes you graceful and what does swimming make you?

It makes you get water in your ears, that all, she said. I never saw a swimmer look graceful, all I ever saw them look was splashy, she said.

Well anybody that cant look graceful naturally, dont deserve to look graceful, I said. And if a boat ever sank with you on it, you'd never keep on top of the water by just looking graceful because for the simple reason why because you'd be too busy sinking, I said. O is that so, well I had so many gentlemen friends on board that they could easy take terns keeping me floating, and do you know how I'd make so many friends? By dancing with them before the ship sank, thats how, Mary Watkins said, and I said, Ha ha dont make me laff, they'd all be so busy saving themselves they wouldnt even see you going down for the 3rd time still trying to look graceful!

Benny Fotts thats a strait insult and Im going rite in the house, Mary Watkins said. Wich she started, and I said, Aw what did I say, hay wait, I didnt say anything. I ment they'd teach you how to swim in the ships swimming pool the very first thing as a reward for being so graceful, and then when the boat went down you'd be able to save yourself and look graceful at the same time, I said.

Making me win the arguement, only she acted as if she thawt she had, making us both feel better instead of worse.

Thoughts On Modern Life

THE ANCIENT NEW

What is the matter with liberalism?

I once put this question to the inimitable Hendrik Willem van Loon. We had been talking about the way in which so many tired reformers had turned from revolutions to rose gardens after the stress and strain of the war period. "There's nothing the matter with liberalism," he said. "The trouble is with the liberals. They lack a sense of history and a sense of humor."

The average liberal is so sure he is modern. Fondling his social theories, he feels all the thrill of the inventor who has given the world a new instrument.

The average liberal is so sure to take himself seriously. And why not, if you are convinced that you have invented a new social theory upon the prompt trial of which the future of your generation depends?

I am sure van Loon is right in suggesting that the liberal needs a sense of humor.

Now and then we need a grim fanatic to shake us into awareness of specific evils that we should remedy, and I am not sure that a laughing Savonarola would get far in turning us into crusaders.

But, by and large, liberalism is more effective in the hands of liberals with a sense of humor.

And I suspect that the liberal sense of humor depends upon having a sense of history. The man who is convinced that he has developed a brand new social theory is likely to take himself so seriously that his sense of humor will fly out the window.

A plunge into history soon reveals the fact that we moderns are wholesale plagiarists from the ancients.

Thomas Jefferson did not discover the ideas of the Declaration of Independence; old Spartacus did not mention some predecessors had them all.

Alexander Hamilton did not invent the protective tariff; he had protective tariffs in ancient Athens.

Andrew Jackson did not create the spoils system; it was got strong in Egypt in Joseph's time. Volstead did not think up prohibition; he was stealing Moham-med's thunder.

And the historians remind that ancient Rome knew the need of public officials, taxes on excess profits, violations of corrupt practices theories in campaigns, traffic congestion, regulations of the height of buildings, and so on.

The quickest way for the modern to get a sense of humor about himself is to read history.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MORE LIGHT

What the child who is afraid of the dark needs most is more light when the sun dies down all the familiar things take on unfamiliar shapes. That which was straight is now crooked for the shadows play queer pranks with things.

Memories of half seen, half forgotten things rise up to trouble the child. In the vague world of childhood all outlines are dim and much of what is darkly dim and mysterious to childhood. The darkness is peopled with these vague impressions that seem to take on new life with the setting of the sun.

There is little use in talking about it. The child SEES things with his child mind that you no longer see. In fact you have forgotten that you ever did see them. And strange noises rise to alarm him. The creaking of the loose hinge, the bump of a falling apple, the crack-crack-crack of the branches of the old apple tree, call up weird fancies that you have long forgotten though once they were real in your ears.

Say no more about it. Fix the lights. At every dark turn place a button that can be pressed for illumination, or a lamp that can be lighted easily. At the foot of the long stairs, at the turn of the hall, at the head of the cellar stairs and at the foot have buttons or lights that the child can turn on as he needs them.

Teach him to turn them off as he passes. If he learns to turn on light when he needs it, and to turn it off again when the need is past, he will have travelled long way toward conquering his fear of the dark. Darkness then is at the back of a button or the turn of a screw soon loses its terrors.

A night light on the head of child's bed soon helps him conquer his night terrors. Nobodies know, seemingly, what frights the child but it is soon evident that a flood of light relieves him. Take care not to frighten him into the souls of children. Especially is it important not to let any loud noises occur in the night. Sleeping children are shocked by sudden loud noises and it is the kind of shock that brings on nightmares. Strange voices calling things bumping, thunder, lightning crashing, thunder, sudden alarms, all these bring fears. Avoid them where possible. Turn on the light at once when any of them come unavoidably.

It is not wise to force a child to go anywhere in the dark. Give him a flashlight, and if he is unwilling to go by himself, go with him cheerfully. And refrain from calling him "scare cat," or "coward," and "baby."

What he wants from you more light.

U. S. PARCEL POST

Today is the anniversary of the start of parcel post in the United States. It is difficult to realize that this vast and complicated system was begun just 17 years ago today, and then only in an experimental way.

On May 2, 1915, an appropriation bill was passed providing $15,000 for a survey of the problem. Parcel post packages were not accepted in the mails until the first of the following year.

Parcel post is not, however, a modern thing. The ancient Egyptians, Assyrians and Persians had a similar system worked out to a highly efficient degree. A document written in 270 B. C., and found in the Nile valley, affords an interesting glimpse of the post offices of the ancients. Careful notes were kept of the day and hour of each messenger's arrival and of the number of packages he carried. Service was restricted.

however, to kings and state officials. Marco Polo wrote, too, of highly developed postal system in China from the earliest ages which included the handling of packages.
